TERMS SHE RECEIVED

Triple Entente Offered a Large Part of Macedonia, Which Was Accepted.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 .- A report here to-day was to the effect that Bulgaria had entered the war on the side of the ailies.

An officer of the Bulgarian legation would not confirm the rumor but said he would not be surprised if it were true.

ROME, via Paris, Aug. 20,-The Entente powers, according to a positive statement made by the Sona corendent of the Giornale D'Italia, have offered to Bulgaria that part of Macedonia given to her by the Serbo-Bulgarian treaty of 1912, with the right of immediate occupation. The controversy over the part of Maceionia contested by Serbia and the cause of the second Balkan war will be settled after the present war ends.

Proportionate compensation is to be given to Serbia, including the city Kavala, with the districts of Kawals and Seres, with the right of immediate occupation.

Bulgaria, on her side, renounces forever pretensions to Saloniki, Votine and Uskub. She promises also to declare war immediately upon Turkey, aided by funds of the four lites. Bulgaria, the correspondent declares, will receive further terriorial concessions in Turkey.

It is believed that Serbia and Greece will give way under pressure by the Entente powers, but negotiations will be lengthened by the reluctance of the King of Greece to conent to any cession of territory.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—Italy holds the key to the Balkan situation, according to despatches received here to-day. If the Italian Foreign Office consents to the division of Albania between Serbia and Greece, with the port of Aviona to be retained by Italy, Bulgaria may yet be induced to enter the war on the Nish despatches to-day said that serbia has informed the allies she is willing to cede Serbian Macedonia to Bulgaria if her interests in Albania are given proper consideration. The Venizelos leaders in Greece are said to favor making concessions to Bulgaria in return for a portion of Albania.

BOFIA, Bulgaria, Aug. 20 (via London).—Gen. Fitcheff, Bulgarian Minister of War, has resigned on account of ill health. He is succeeded by Gen.

RUPTURE BETWEEN ITALY AND TURKEY

ROME, Aug. 20 .- (via Paris)-A and Italy is considered imminent. De lay in action on Italy's part is ascribed to her desire to do her ut-most to conserve the interests of Italians who still remain in the Ottoman empire, who are now estimated at 12,000 in number. Italian newspapers in commenting Italian newspapers in commenting on the situation express the opinion that an Italian declaration of war against Turkey would not hasten a solution in the Dardanelles favorable to the entente allies, because military experts seem to believe that a new army on the Gallipoli Peninsula would be superfiguous.

TARANTO, Italy, Aug. 20.—A strong squadron of fast cruisers is being held in readiness to sail from here at a moment's notice. It is expected that the warships will be sent against Turtesy if that country decimes to satisfy Italy's demands for the release of Italian subjects held in the Ottoman Empire.

BRINDISI, Italy, Aug. 20.—Five army corps concentrated at Apulia have been ordered to be prepared to leave for an unknown destination.

BULGARIA IN WAR WHAT IS A PERFECT HUSBAND? ON SIDE OF ALLIES, WHAT IS A PERFECT WIFE?

She's Not a "Painted Doll" OF RUSSIA MAY

Judging from the replies, it seems easier to describe the perfect husband than the perfect wife. Can it be that there are more of him known to Evening World readers? The consensus of opinion is that for the perfect wife, however, the "painted doll" type won't do and there are strong suggestions that to find her there must be a search in the kitchen.

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall.

What is a perfect wifet What is a perfect husband?

Ever so many of you have answered, and are still answering the latter question. Don't neglect the former one. Don't put all the onus of living up to an ideal of perfection on Friend Husband. Let us hear what the perfect wife ought to be, in the judgment of men and women readers of The Evening World. Some men hope to marry her. Other men-I hope—have married her. What description of her have they to live? Why do they find her perfect, either in reality or in their mind's eye? Does her perfection depend on beauty, on brains, on disposition, on culinary ability? And how do women view this question? What sort of woman do they think is the perfect wife? What do they think men think about her? Let's see how soon we can set her verbal portrait beside that of the perfect husband.

Meanwhile several women correspondents already have charged the modern man with matrimonial preference for the "painted doll" rather than for the young woman with character and good sense. These critics rather bitterly assert that a man's idea of a perfect wife-until he marries her, at any rate—is the frivolous overdressed, superficially attractive young woman, without a serious idea of accomplishment, who is a conspicuous figure in the restaurant and dance-hall life of New

Do the young an plead guilty to this indictment? Some of them, at least, do not, as you may gather from the letters published below. I received these before asking for a definition of the perfect wife, but in each of them is outlined certain qualifications which the writers believe the lady must possess. No "painted dolls" need apply. Indeed, I couldn't help thinking that some of the requisitions might be summarized in one line: "Come live with me and be my > make a perfect pie? What do the readers of The Evening World think about it? Dear Madam: In looking over the different articles in regard to a perfect husband, I notice that one writer, "A. L.," has come out strong against the male sex. "A. L" thinks she is wise and tells of a superintendent who insulted her when she made a business call. Can you picture a man that has worked his way up to the posttion of superintendent of an insurance company doing such a thing, unless he had cause? Miss "A. I.," how were you dressed and how did you act in his presence? Maybe the same as the rest. Did you ever stop to think what the girls do when a strange man enters the office where they are employed? Powder puff first, brush back the hair, all ready then for a smile and invitation to go to lunch. I know; I have been there and am thoroughly disgusted with the girls that work in offices, also those that are fortunate enough to stay home and run the streets.

Give me the girl from the kitchen, one that knows what a home is, one that can cook a meal and knows something. If you business girls, as you class yourselves, would no home from business and try and learn something about home work, and out out your meetings where you compare notes to see which one has met the most men, you might get a man. Unless you do something soon you will be lost. You must remember there is more to do than dressing up and running around, if you would get married. I have a good position and can well afford to have a wife and home, both of which I expect to have soon. You may say, "Where did you find one to suit you?" I answer, "In the kitchen." She is dream. I am proud of her. She can cook, bake, in fact, do anything that is necessary for a wife to do. Here is what I expect to do when I get her: Hand her $25 every week, bring that box of candies I bring at present, attend theatre once a week, the movies

a couple of times a week, take her on my fishing trips, as well as hunting, let her say where we shall go in my vacation, which lasts one month. What more can a woman expect? Understand, I never smoke or chew and do all my drinking at home; don't attend clubs or lodges, unless it is ladies' night. "A. L.," would you call me a Perfect Husband? If you fare as well as my sweetheart. you will be lucky. Learn how to cook a meal, then when you get a man you won't have cause to regret your step; it is up to you to make good. J. L. WALL STREET OFFICE GIRL

ONLY WANTS GOOD TIME.

Dear Madam: I have been reading for the past weeks the different remarks printed in your paper about the perfect husband. Some say there is no such thing and more say if he lives they have vet to meet him. I am a young man, twenty-four years old, born in Brooklyn, and make a comrtable salary for two to live on I have no home, but live with my married sister, and am only too willing to get married the first chance I get. But the older I get the more I see and learn about the young ladies of to-day. I must say I am further now than nust say I am further now than I ever was from getting married. I have been working around the Wall Street district for the past six years. In regard to "A. L. s" letter, did she stop to think of what we young men see and hear of the actions of the young indies in the offices of to-day? No, she of the actions of the young inches in the offices of to-day? No, she didn't. Did she stop to think of the atories some of the young ladies tell us after they have been out with some young man the night before, one who spent his good money and tried his best to please? The girl will tell us how she kissed him and made him believe she was true, and how she made him buy supper and other things. She will add, sneeringly: "He is only a young dope and he must learn his lesson." There are thousands of these young ladies right around Wall Street. This is one of the reasons that are keeping so many of our young men from getting married. They would sooner spend their money on themselves than have some on themselves than have some would sooner spend their money on themselves than have some ungrateful girl talk about them the next day. I have been to all kinds of house parties, balls, theatres and summer resorts, and I personally know about fifty young ladies and have taken about twenty-five of them to different places and find them all about the same, telling about the good supper and the good times they had a few nights previous.

You never hear them say how many suppers they have cooked, or how often they hap clean up the house, nor do they show you any of the dresses they have made. No, never! All they think of is a good time, and think when they get married they are going to have everything their own way. These are some of the things I have found out about the young ladies of New York. I am no grouch, but full of fun, and can entertain the best of company, and have done so. I think if the young ladies of to-day would stop talking about the good times they would like to have and show the young men some of their good housekseping and dressmaking, there would be more young men in New York married.

'FALL GUY"(?) HAS EXPERI-

FALL GUY"(1) HAS EXPERI-ENCE WITH GAY BLONDES. Dear Madam: I have taken out several gay blondes. But that "everybody turned around and looked" stuff didn't excite my jealousy—far from it. I wondered if the looker ever had been The Fall Guy, or how much he had on the Doll. Understand, I'm going to go it once again, for I like the girls, you see. But not many more years of this bright, light stuff for me. Can't do it. Getting older every day.

me. Can't do it. Getting older every day.

When I get ready for the quiet home stuff, I'm going to hunt up little Miss Simplicity, get her to take me, teach her the tango-perhaps. Anyhow, I'm playing safe, for Miss Simplicity can go out with me and no one has anything on her. She'll at least stay out of shadow gowns and tea rooms and make-up.

Being a man, I'd like to be able to tell her a few of a man's ideas. It certainly would be best that way. There's too big a risk in the "doll." I've met a few who could tell me things. And I've been around some.

ANOTHER ADMIRES OF THE MODEST, HOME-MADE GIRL

NOWS MANY WHO'D BE PER-FECT HUSBANDS. Dear Madam: What is a per-fect husband? In my opinion that question can be answered in a very few words.

He must be ready to settle down when he gets married? He must love his wife, which will in-sure his being unselfish and giv-ing her first consideration at all times. I know a great many of this kind. WM. K. S. RIGHT THAT GIRLS SHOULD LOOK OUT FOR THE FUTURE.

Dear Madam: I have read the letter from "M. D." telling how he was snubbed. In the first place, he shouldn't have represented himself a travelling salesman. They say that sailors have a sweetheart in every port; well, I think the same could be said of travelling salesmen. Then, he says that girls marry for money and not for love. I had a proposal from a man fifty-nine years old. He said he was worth $50,000, but I wouldn't have him if he was the last man in the man. They say that sailors have if he was the last man in the world. I wouldn't want a perfect husband, because there is none. The men know how to talk none. The men know how to talk very nicely before marriage, but afterward, goodnight! First, I would like a man to be three or four years older than I am. He must have a good character, good principles and know how to take good care of a wife. I don't see why a girl shouldn't look out for her future when she gets married. I think it's no more than right; without money you can do nothing. Ever since I was a child my mother taught me to save and not spend foolishly. Now I have a nice little bank account to my credit, which many girls cannot redit, which many girls cannot show, and I am only twenty-two. You know the old saying is, "When poverty enters the door love files out the window," which is only too true. E. B. R.

BATTLE NOW FOR RIGA

Great Seaport Attacked by Germans by Land and Sea.

LONDON, Aug. 20 .- As the Austrians and Germans press on to the last of the outlying fortresses standing between the Russian capital and the invaders Petrograd is discussing the advisability of removing the government to its ancient seat at Moscow, Kovno is now definitely in the hands of the Germans. The flanking movement of Field Marshal von Mackensen grows more threatening hourly, and it would not be surprising if Grand Duke Nicholas should abandon all efforts to form a new line with Brest-Litovsk as the pivot.

From Brest-Litovsk to Ossowetz, which seems to be withstanding the assaults of the heavy German guns better than any other fortress, fierce fighting continues with the advantage in favor of the invaders.
